Equality and Diversity Statement

The Royal Conservatoire of Scotland embraces a diverse population of students and staff. We believe that excellence can be achieved through recognising and celebrating the value of every individual, and are committed to promoting equality, diversity and inclusion in all of our activities.

We are committed to developing and upholding a culture based on respect, inclusiveness, transparency and open-mindedness. We will proactively advance equity and inclusive practice in our activities and through effective and collaborative action, ensure that we all have the right to be seen, heard and celebrated.

Anti-Racism Statement

The RCS Anti-Racism Action Plan (ARAP) was created in 2020 and shows key activities undertaken in our journey towards being a more equitable and just community of students and staff. RCS is next month (September 2023) launching a new institutional Strategic Plan taking us through to 2030. As part of this, we will be reflecting on lessons learned to date, as well as how we develop anti-racism further in a way that is embedded fully in our values and goals.

The Conservatoire has a zero-tolerance approach to racism and condemns all racist and discriminatory behaviour. We are committed to challenging and dismantling structural racism within our practices, policies, procedures, and community. In using the term 'Zero Tolerance', our meaning is that we do not tolerate acts of racism in RCS and that our response to any abuse will be timely, visible, credible, dealt with through transparent systems and in line with our policies. Students and staff, through their membership of RCS's Equality, Diversity and Inclusion Forum, worked together to refine a contextualising statement about Zero Tolerance, so that it would be clearly understood across our community what is meant in using this term within an RCS context.

It is unacceptable that anyone at the Conservatoire experiences racism or discrimination. The Conservatoire through its policies and practice pledges to support BIPOC staff and students and those from all under-represented ethnic groups. We will take action to ensure that the Royal Conservatoire of Scotland is an anti-racist environment where all staff and students can work, train, study and progress.

ABOUT THIS HANDBOOK

This document is your Programme Handbook, outlining what you will need to know about your work throughout the Programme.

You are being given this handbook, which contains the modules of study, so that you can plan ahead. It contains information on modules and your learning journey throughout CPP.

On the RCS Student Portal (portal.rcs.ac.uk), you will find the Undergraduate Handbook and the Conservatoire's Regulations, Codes of Procedure and General Rules. These regulations apply to all students in the Conservatoire.

Note that this handbook only includes modules for Years 3 and 4 as there are no students currently studying on Years 1 and 2.

CURRENT PROJECTS

If we are truly contemporary our research, practice and pedagogy must respond to the now. Here are the current projects we are working on this academic year (full details will be available on the website from the start of term): <https://www.rcs.ac.uk/courses/ba-contemporary-performance-practice/>

RATIONALE FOR THE PROGRAMME

The BA (Hons) Contemporary Performance Practice exists to generate artists who are socially engaged and able to work across a variety of disciplines in a range of contexts. We hope that you will emerge from the BA (Hons) Contemporary Performance Practice with knowledge, skills and understandings, a critical and articulate sense of yourself as an artist and an ecological and social perspective that will enable you to realise your potential in these contexts.

In 2009 the Programme took the decision to use the word 'Performance' not 'Theatre' in the title in order to clarify its position in relation to the broadest field of performance practices. By 'Performance', it is understood that, while drawing upon the tradition of British and European Theatre, the Programme also seeks to address the wider phenomenon of performance in human cultures from ritual practices, through performance in everyday life to art-making processes. Programme draws upon and synthesises a wide variety of disciplines and critical discourses.

Contemporary Performance Practice locates itself in a variety of contested, socially and ecologically engaged contexts and insists that you re-contextualise your practices in response to this diversity. These contexts include social practice, live art, performance art, post-modern and post-dramatic performance, land art, installation, performance research, Site-Specific and documentary practices.

The Programme locates itself within a radical pedagogical movement rooted in Social Constructivism and foregrounds the social function of performance and its use as an 'act of community'. It is influenced by The Artist Placement Group (1966) and privileges the concept that 'context is half the work' which attests to a spatial and conceptual shift from the studio to organisations and institutions, from material works to information, to site-specific work, and to social relations. Consequently, the Programme embodies a move away from the dominance of dramatic literature, commercial and hierarchical theatre models, and the false dichotomy of professional versus amateur practices. Alternatively, it is a move towards a re-negotiated approach to text and authorship, who has the 'right' to be an artist, the social and ecological efficacy of the performance act and the role of the artist in the world.

As part of the Programme's commitment to foreground the ecological and social function of performance, it proposes that environmental crisis is the single most important challenge we face. Contemporary performance has always sought to respond to and engage with the challenges we face as human beings; artists often creatively re-imagine, re-frame and reform 'normative' ways of thinking and doing witnessed in our day-to-day lives and societies.

The Programme is designed to investigate the creative process of performance for its educational value. There is, therefore, a firm pedagogical underpinning to the Programme which encourages you to capture, analyse and understand your own individual developing creative process so as to be better equipped to enable others towards your creative participation in performance-making.

In AY 2022/23 the Programme began a Curriculum Review resulting in the development of a new programme of study. Some of the conceptual aspects of the new programme have been included in the final two years of the current Programme.

Ecological Performance: philosophy and practice

The social and pedagogical imperatives of the Programme are understood through its broader framing which can be described as ecological. Ecological performance as defined by the Programme is performance that challenges the culturally received separation between humans and the biosphere and is likely to produce work which happens outside of conventional theatre spaces in immersive, participatory, and experimental forms (Kershaw, 2009).

The Programme is influenced by the concept of 'deep ecology' (Naess 1973), a philosophy which recognizes that all relationships, including our relationship with non-human nature, are intrinsic to our identity and essential in defining what it means to be human.

It is important to note that the Programme is not concerned to teach artists to make work that is didactically 'environmental' in its subject matter, but rather in nurturing artists who make work which is deeply ecological in all aspects: its consciousness, its values and its very nature. Nor does this approach lead to the making of performance work solely outside established performance buildings, indeed the very concept of 'scenography expanded' refers to the making of contemporary performance both in and beyond the theatre.

Programme Aims and Learning Outcomes

Students join the programme in the expectation that they will complete all four levels and graduate with an honours degree. The general programme aims and outcomes therefore reflect that expectation. However, exit awards, which coincide with each of the programme's three progression points, form part of the programme structure.

Level Three Aim

Level Three aims to enable you to engage in the notion of practice research and deepen your understanding of this in relation to the making of performance.

Level Four Aim

Level Four aims to provide a bridge for you between the Conservatoire and your chosen professional contexts. It aims to promote a worldview that situates the individual artist sustainably in the broadest possible ecological contexts.

Programme Learning Outcomes

The Level Learning Outcomes of these three intermediary levels/awards are given here.

Level Three (BA Ordinary Degree)

Learning Outcome Number	Level Three Learning Outcomes (SCQF Level 9) On completion of this Level you will be able to:
3.1	Ecological &amp; Social Performance Practice Research, make and present performance work which recognises and understands complex systems and your interconnectivity, through a variety of supervised projects.
3.2	Aesthetics &amp; Composition Embed aesthetic and compositional skills consistently across various performance research projects in supervised learning environments.
3.3	Critical &amp; Contextual Understanding Locate your work in the context of performance research by exploring your critical voice in supervised learning environments.
3.4	Embodiment and Wellbeing Apply your understanding of the embodied self to support your practice and wellbeing whilst engaging in a variety of supervised projects.

Level Four (BA Honours Degree)

Learning Outcome Number	Level 4 Learning Outcomes (SCQF Level 10) On completion of this Level you will be able to:
4.1	Ecological &amp; Social Performance Practice Produce performance work which originates from a deep ecological enquiry, in a variety of mentored professional contexts.
4.2	Aesthetics &amp; Composition Demonstrate an integrated and holistic understanding of aesthetics and composition through performance and professional documentation in a variety of mentored professional contexts.
4.3	Critical &amp; Contextual Understanding Demonstrate individual praxis that forms the conceptual understanding of performance in work across a variety of mentored professional contexts.
4.4	Embodiment and Wellbeing Use your knowledge of embodiment and wellbeing to demonstrate living a sustainable practice in a variety of mentored professional contexts.

TIMINGS OF MODULES IN AY 2023/24

The modules for the AY 2023/24 will be delivered in the following pattern:

Year 3

Performance Research (Term 1)
Collaborations (Term 2)
Performance Writing (Term 3)
Bodies in Contemporary Performance (Term 1 – Term 2)
Placement (Term 1)

Year 4

The Artist in Development (Term 1 – Term 3)
Into the New: Performance-Making (Term 1 – Week 6, Term 2)
Fields of Performance (Week 7, Term 2 – Week 4, Term 3)
Secondment (Week 7, Term 2 – Week 4, Term 3)

INTRODUCTION TO PROGRAMME STRANDS

The BA (Hons) CPP is a practical Programme designed to develop the knowledge, skills and understanding required to realise your potential as an autonomous artist who specialises in the making of performance work for themselves and for others. The concern of the Programme is to provide opportunities for you to develop a personal critical perspective, and an arts practice situated sustainably in the broadest possible ecological context. The Programme does this through engaging you in the following four strands:

Ecological and Social Performance Practice
Aesthetics and Composition
Critical and Contextual Understanding
Embodiment and Wellbeing

In Years 3 and 4, the strands are interwoven through the modules of study, so cannot discretely be extracted. For the AY 2023/24 and 2024/25 the Embodiment and Wellbeing strand is being expressed through Bodies in Contemporary Performance as a way to engage continuing students with rigorous and regular performance skills training. It should also be noted that these modifications are targeted to distribute the ideas of Embodiment and Wellbeing to all modules as, in particular, positive Wellbeing must be addressed in all learning and teaching encounters.

Ecological and Social Performance Practice

The Ecological and Social Performance Practice strand activates the Programme's philosophy and practice of ecological performance. The Programme's decision to marry a performance strand (which is fundamental to the day-to-day development of performance skills and understanding in a performance-making degree) with the philosophical position of a development in ecological understanding, is an attempt to make explicit the urgency of making performance work which has ecological and social value. This means making work and following creative inquiries which explore ideas or involve methodologies which have a contribution to the world in which we live.

This may include:

- Exploring ideas which attempt to critique and better understand our societies, cultures and our world.
- Work which explores identity, race, disability, class.
- Work which explores power, ethics, corruption and the process of change.
- Work which has the potential or desire to influence individuals, groups and policy.
- Work involving disadvantaged people who might otherwise not have the opportunity to engage in performance-making and enquiry.
- Work which is aware of its human and material resources.
- Work which seeks to collaborate across art forms, specialisms and bring together people with opposing world-views, with the ambition of developing understanding and building a body of knowledge.
- Work which challenges the notion of who has the 'right' to be an artist.
- Work which challenges institutional thinking.
- Work with young people, older adults, people with disabilities and with people within the prison system.

We believe that contemporary performance has the immediate potential to transform individuals, communities and policy, not just through intellectual grappling to reach consensus but through dynamic experiences which shift identities and world-views.

Aesthetics and Composition

Aesthetics and Composition strand places the perceiving body at the centre of making as a way to understand performance as a mode of encounter and exchange founded on spatial and material relations between bodies, objects and matter. This strand asks us to think about how the language of aesthetics can shape meaning making and experience.

Aesthetics, derived from the Greek word for perceptual or sensory knowledge, is explored by examining the materiality of all things and by asking us to consider Ingold's proposition of making as a process of growth that draws out and brings forth potentials immanent in a world of becoming (Ingold, 2013).

This process of working, within the context of contemporary performance, asks you to explore ways of arranging and shaping material as part of an embodied and critically aware performance practice whilst simultaneously paying attention to our own stories, the way we individually perceive and understand objects/materials, the role of active spectator and the context of our accelerating material culture.

Beginning in Level One you are introduced to the multi-sensorial and formal nature of aesthetics and composition in the context of performance. You practically explore materiality, object and material histories, compositional techniques and the phenomenological nature of experience whilst concurrently studying recent and historical aesthetic theories. Level Two widens this examination to the field of social practice where you are introduced to the aesthetics and curation of participation, singular and collective authorship and spectatorship and current rhetoric surrounding anti-aesthetic. As the strand progresses, you are asked to practically and theoretically consider the application of aesthetics and composition in various contexts and how this relationship identifies and offers meaning. Throughout the four years you will be introduced to various aesthetic and composition methodologies as a way to critically enrich and develop individual performance enquiries.

Critical and Contextual Understanding

The Critical and Contextual Understanding strand aims to embed understanding of research and enquiry-led learning; from initial introductions to critical thinking in Level One of study; a focused development of theories of social practice in Level Two; deep exploration of research methods and application of these within Level Three; and demonstration of praxis and research supporting an ecological performance practice in Level Four.

With support from tutors, you will be able to identify areas of particular interest to your own practice, identifying existing gaps in knowledge and understanding, and how to engage with key performance research methods. Through learning about existing creative practices; the history of performance and related artistic and social movements; theoretical frameworks and critical theory; you learn how to locate your work within the context of contemporary performance.

The Critical and Contextual Understanding strand is explored most fully in the third level of study: The Researching Artist. Each of the core modules encourage you to interrogate your own processes and to consider your performance-making practice in the context of performance research. Collaborations, Performance Research and Performance Writing all encourage practice as research processes of making and a thorough engagement with ideas and critical theory. You are encouraged to widen your solo practice to acknowledge complex systems and your interconnectivity, moving beyond your ideas of autobiographical and social practice developed in the first two levels of study.

Informed by Nelson's framework of practice as research as a process of 'doing-reflecting-reading-articulating-doing' (Nelson 2013), the explorations of theoretical concepts and frameworks throughout Critical and Contextual Understanding in practical and embodied ways, encourages you to understand how a research practice can underpin and inform every aspect of your approach to performance making. You will develop skills in communicating and disseminating your ideas and practice in a range of creative, visual, verbal and written ways throughout your four year learning journey. To make work that engages with the critical issues that face the planet, you must be informed and articulate, with the ability to think deeply and critically and for praxis to be an integral part of your ecological and social performance practice.

Embodiment and Wellbeing

The Embodiment and Wellbeing strand enables you to develop into a compassionate and resilient graduating artist who can work effectively across discipline and context. This strand uses a Somatic Movement Education (SME) approach as a means of developing, enhancing and supporting a sustainable arts practice.

A Focus on Wellbeing

This strand of the programme recognises that wellbeing and embodiment are inextricably linked and as we witness a rise in anxiety and mental health disorders in our student population, it feels more necessary than ever to highlight the importance of wellbeing in order to 'live a sustainable practice'.

Wellbeing can be defined as:

- feeling confident
- being able to experience a wide range of emotions
- a capacity to build and maintain good relationships
- an ability to engage with the wider world
- being able to cope with the stresses of everyday life
- managing and adapting to times of change and uncertainty

Factors that can play a role in maintaining wellbeing are: reflecting on what affects wellbeing, building relationships, taking care of one's physical health, taking time to reflect on how one feels.

Somatic Movement Education

Embodiment and Wellbeing draws on the established form of Somatic Movement Education (SME) as a practical approach to a holistic arts practice which places importance upon a developing sense of self, a capacity to be in relationship with others and our environment and the promotion of wellbeing. SME is concerned with the 'living body' inclusive of anatomical structure, movement, voice, experience, imagination, thought, reflection and feeling. Through practical, taught classes and independent learning this strand enables you to unpack the idea of the 'embodied practitioner'.

This approach asks the learner to draw upon lived experience in order to challenge, connect and engage with what is around us be that as collaborators, tutors, community groups or in a larger ecological and social context.

Preparing to work takes time – time to slow down and catch up with ourselves, steer ourselves out of the currents we have been borne along, out of the swiftness of the noisy and often tumultuous river that is our lives, and make our way towards a shore. (Crickmay & Tufnell 2004)

Beginning in Level One you embark on a journey of learning to physically and theoretically understand the structure of your body, and to learn experientially the importance of preparing fully to work in any context. As the strand progresses, it draws on a diverse range of contemporary movement methodologies and somatic approaches. The ambition of this is to build confidence in learning movement vocabularies and rhythmic patterns that will improve fitness, stamina, flexibility and rhythm. This strand is designed to develop your integrated, thinking body, to be responsive and equipped for the various learning encounters offered on the programme. It promotes the notion of becoming 'present' and attentive to the immediate moment in preparation for working. Importance is placed on recognising that the state in which you begins work will affect the quality of that work.

ASSESSMENT: PHILOSOPHY AND PRACTICE

Overview of the Programme's approach to assessment

In accordance with the Academic Framework, the BA(Hons) CPP Programme acknowledges that assessment is valuable not only as a measurement of learning, but also as a catalyst for learning: the assessment process is, in itself, an integral part of your learning experience. As such, assessment in Conservatoire programmes is often conducted in the context of practice, whether performance, teaching, or other practice.

Over the course of the BA(Hons) CPP Programme a diverse range of areas of knowledge, skills and understandings are assessed to determine the achievement of a diverse range of learning outcomes. It is understood that these achievements will be measured using an equally diverse range of forms of assessment.

The Programme employs a rich variety of feedback mechanisms to support student learning. Dialogue, between students and staff, professionals, and peers, forms the basis of much formative feedback. Verbal feedback from tutors—for instance in tutorials, 'micro-labs' and performance classes—is used to provide regular and tailored advice on your individual development. In classes, you are encouraged to provide constructive criticism on each other's work and progress.

Approach to Pass/Fail and Alphanumeric Grading

There is much research to suggest that grading alone runs counter to the promotion of learning, encouraging students to participate in the 'grade game', lowering self-esteem, reducing creativity and creating unnecessary anxiety. (Kohn, 1993). The Programme supports a move towards authentic assessment (Soloman and Soloman, 1993) in which you play an active role in evaluating your own learning.

In Levels One and Two therefore, pass/fail outcomes are given, with alphanumeric grades being used only in Levels Three and Four. In this way the Programme seeks to enable you towards self-critical reflection; accuracy in graded self-evaluation and participation in learning without 'chasing' grades. Levels Three and Four follow the same assessment philosophy with you and staff sharing responsibility for assessment but with the introduction of the alphanumeric grade as additional assessment information from the tutor to facilitate the calculation of Honours degree classifications.

In Level One and Two, all assessments are pass/fail.

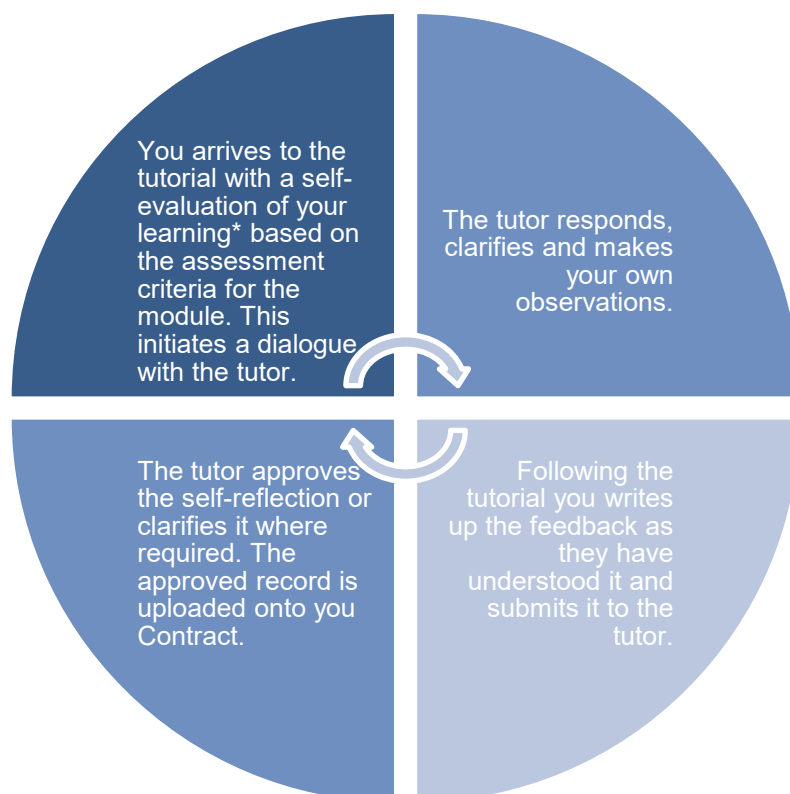

Alphanumeric grades are utilised in Level Three assessment processes and they contribute 30% towards the Honours classification at the end of the Programme. In Level Four summative alphanumeric grades are given for each module and they contribute 70% towards to the Honours classification on graduation.

Approach to Mutually Constructed Feedback

Mutually constructed feedback is the main method by which the Programme encourages you to take responsibility for your own learning and the Programme has embedded the concept of 'mutually constructed feedback' in all modules:

'...there is a mutual responsibility for creating the feedback and the next set of actions. Once you(s) and tutor(s) have held the tutorial, both parties are responsible for reflecting, recording and writing up your notes. Both the tutor and student should develop and agree the suggested/required actions. To make certain that the learning experience has been effective there is a further stage for the tutor, and that is to validate each student's record of your feedback to ensure they have understood and made sense of what was discussed and what is now required.' (Pirie/Triggs 2011)

*a pro-forma is provided for this purpose

There may be occasions where you do not agree with feedback provided by the tutor. If it is not possible for feedback, either formative or summative, to be mutually and meaningfully resolved between you and the tutor(s), you will be given the option at the earliest convenient time to:

- a) Have the documentation of the feedback reviewed by another member of your subject lecturing team.
- b) Request a second member of staff to be present during a resolution process
- c) Request that the Head of Programme or another senior member of staff acts as moderator for the process, in which case the moderator's decision will be final.

The main methods of assessment on the programme are as follows:

Observation of Practice (Continuous Observation)

This involves observation of your working process and practice throughout the module. In the context of a one-to-one tutorial you and your tutor engage in the development of mutually constructed feedback, in which they both identify key moments in your learning which demonstrate you have met the learning outcomes, thus making you an active participant in a transparent and collaborative assessment process.

Performance

The assessment of learning through performance is central to the Conservatoire context. In the programme performance can take the form of; classroom sharings, public performances, site-based performances, and installations.

Verbal Communication

You are given many opportunities to demonstrate your knowledge, skill and understanding in verbal modes. In the programme a presentation can take the form of: micro-lectures; individual and group performance lectures; question and answer sessions; and individual and group viva voce.

Engagement with new technologies

The programme adopts a blended learning approach from Level One to Level Four. The Aesthetics and Composition strand of the programme specifically engages with new technologies such as blogs, digital learning resources, professional portfolio, film and the use of social media technology to interact with various audiences in various contexts.

Written Communication

Many of the modules in the programme involve forms of written communication. These include essays, performance analysis, research projects, performance scores, funding applications, and teaching practice portfolios.

Feedback: Definitions and Descriptions

Feedback and Feedforward

The purpose of feedback is twofold: to let you know how well you have done in relation to the learning outcomes to be achieved ('feedback'), and to identify together with you how to improve your work in future ('feedforward').

Formative assessment

This assessment mode designed to provide feedback to you and your tutors for the purpose of developing learning and teaching. From a student's perspective, formative assessment provides information on your progress in relation to the level learning outcomes. Formative assessment may not contribute to your final grade but is to assist you to understand your own strengths and weaknesses in relation to the learning outcomes in order to work towards improving your overall performance.

Summative assessment

This assessment mode results in the production of summative feedback in Levels One and Two and an alphanumeric grade in Levels Three and Four. Summative assessment is designed to evaluate how well students have achieved the learning outcomes associated with a particular Level or, in the case of final degree classifications, Levels Three and Four. Summative assessment is always viewed and constructed as formative assessment – i.e. as well as measuring a student's learning at a given point, it is also intended to guide and inform a student's progress.

Common Assessment Scale

The BA(Hons) CPP adopts the Conservatoire's common assessment scale for the marking of work:

Common Assessment Scale	'Background scale'	Descriptor	Degree Classification
A1	17	Excellent	First Class
A2	16
A3	15
A4	14
A5	13
B1	12	Very Good	Second Class, upper division (2i)
B2	11
B3	10
C1	9	Good	Second Class, lower division (2ii)
C2	8
C3	7
D1	6	Satisfactory	Third Class
D2	5
D3	4
E1	3	Inadequate/ Fail	Not Honoursworthy
E2	2
F	1	Serious fail
NS	0	Non-submission/ Non-appearance

Summatively assessed work in Levels 3 and 4 will receive an alphanumeric grade from the Common Assessment Scale column detailed in the table above. It is this grade that will appear on student feedback and on documentation presented to Progress Committees, Examination Boards and to External Examiners.

Level Three in Outline

Level Three is designed to enable you to engage in the notion of practice as research and deepen your understanding of 'Performance Research. During this year, you make solo and collaborative work, in which your concern extends to an individually chosen field of research to demonstrate your understanding of complex systems and their interconnectivity. In addition, Placements are offered to further develop this understanding and to provide context for your developing autonomy and agency as a researching artist. Level Three comprises a variety of supervised projects.

At this Level all the strands are embedded into the module performance projects as the next part of the student journey towards an interconnected practice. You are encouraged to consider your making processes in different environments and contexts and work towards a self-identified reflective and embodied practice.

Each module project enables you to engage in the notion of practice research and demonstrate your learning through performance, visual artwork and written/portfolio forms.

You receive formative feedback throughout the level and a final summative grade for demonstration of completion of the learning outcomes within the strands of Ecological and Social performance Practice, Aesthetics and Composition, Critical and Contextual Understanding and Embodiment and Wellbeing.

While Level One and Level Two of study are Pass/Fail, alphanumeric grades are fully utilised in Level Three assessment processes and they contribute 30% towards to the Honours classification at the end of the Programme.

Level Four in Outline

Level Four provides a bridge for you between the Conservatoire and your chosen professional contexts. As a graduating artist you should be autonomous and aware of your agency and how to sustain your arts practice. All Level Four modules comprise mentored professional projects.

At this Level all strands are embedded into module projects as the final part of the journey towards autonomy and a sustainable arts practice.

In Level Four summative alphanumeric grades are given for each module and they contribute 70% towards to the Honours classification at the end of the Programme.

INTERDISCIPLINARY AND EXTENDED PRACTICE

Interdisciplinary and Extended Practice (IXP) is designed to enrich your creative and educational journey during your studies at the Royal Conservatoire of Scotland through learning experiences centred on creative discovery, experimentation, extension, and innovation. The modules within IXP provide a locus for collaboration, interdisciplinary investigation, and creative citizenship, encouraging these aptitudes and understandings to be interwoven with your core-studies—activating and energizing new connections, ideas, and partnerships beyond core-curricula. IXP acts as a formal and core element of connection between the curricula of the School of Music and the School of Drama, Dance, Production, and Film.

This is articulated as:

Year 1 – Creative Citizenship (SCQF 7, 10 Credits) Core-module

Year 2 – Selection of 10 Credits from IXP portfolio (SCQF 7/8/9)

Year 3 – Selection of 10 Credits from IXP portfolio (SCQF 7/8/9)

Creative Citizenship

(SCQF 7, 10 Credits) Core-module

Beginning in the first term of study at RCS, you engage with the core IXP module Creative Citizenship. In classes of peers from across all undergraduate programmes, you are introduced to the cultural, artistic, political, and educational context of learning in a Higher Education Performing Arts institution. Creative Citizenship is concerned with equipping you with understandings and skills which enable you to be resilient, pro-active, compassionate, and ethical collaborators and peers within this context.

It is also an opportunity for you to meet and work with peers from across the Conservatoire, building relationships beyond your programme and awareness of the different priorities, skills, aspirations and worldviews of peers. Such relationships and awareness are integral to creative citizenship.

Through the lens of artistic practice you will explore four key areas of creative citizenship:

- Artistic Critique and Conversation;
- Working with others—awareness of others' needs and identities;
- Ethics, Consent, and Responsibilities;
- Digital and Media Literacies.

The end of the module acts as a marker in your journey to understanding and applying creative citizenship, as your core-programme continues to develop and nurture these aptitudes and skills in your core-studies.

IXP in Years 2 and 3

In second and third year of undergraduate study, you select 10 Credits from the IXP portfolio in the form of an intensive, week-long Winter or Spring School, or a student-led Personal Creative Project.

The IXP Winter and Spring Schools provide a concentrated and protected space outside your core-programme to engage in multi-disciplinary learning environments with an aim to discover new skills outside your core-studies; apply your arts practice to experimental and interdisciplinary contexts; extend your arts practice to social contexts outwith the RCS; or innovate your practice through business, accelerator, and entrepreneurial activities.

Each academic year, a range of topics are offered within the four strands of IXP that relate to student-interest, staff research, priorities in the performing arts industry, and external partnerships.

Each module in IXP should engage you in a conscious synthesis of these learning experiences with your arts practice and core-studies—promoting an understanding and development of praxis.

THE PROGRAMME'S APPROACH TO PDP

The programme embeds reflective documentation within all strands that develop throughout the four levels of study and articulates with the need for all students in Higher Education to be engaged in Personal Development Planning (PDP).

Throughout the four levels of study, you engage in activities which develop your understanding of yourself, as both learner and artist, enabling you to engage in professional planning and goal setting within an integrated curriculum. It is crucial to the holistic nature of the programme that reflection and PDP activities are fully integrated into every strand of study, so as to instil a deep understanding of meta-cognition, public presentation and professional practice which is vital to living a sustainable arts practice.

In Level Three, your reflective activities focus on developing your ability to critically enter into a discourse surrounding your artistic work and find modes of presentation which align with your developing critical voice. You engage in activities which require forward planning and problem-solving skills as you produce performances both in collaborative and solo contexts. You are also required to creatively document your performance modules through a medium of your choosing, which could include the development of websites, brochures, posters, booklets, performance scores, film or audio.

In Level Four, your reflective activities focus on developing your professional voice and preparing you for the transition to life after study. You are required to find appropriate means of documentation for each module that you engage in, as well as producing a Professional Portfolio, which aligns your developing sense of your arts practice and desired professional context. The modules in Level Four are designed to increase in autonomy as you exit the degree programme, which enables you to practice and reflect upon your skills of professional and project-based planning.

ADDITIONAL PROGRAMME REQUIREMENTS

Independent Study

It is stressed from the outset and throughout the Programme that your development will require systematically pursued independent study. You are expected to undertake independent study in support of and as a development of tutor-led work undertaken in class, rehearsal etc.

Communication

The Programme team use email to communicate quickly and efficiently with individual students, year groups and the whole Programme. It is your responsibility to check your email account at least once a day.

Platforms

With our blended learning model, we will be using multiple platforms depending on what is most appropriate for the context. Tutorials and small meetings should happen on MS Teams; classes and larger meetings can happen on MS Teams or Zoom. Moodle and the MS Teams channels may be used for resources and class materials. Your tutor will inform you which of these platforms you will be using for your learning.

Programme Meetings

Mondays, fortnightly      12 noon – 1pm

These meetings are a space to hear from invited speakers, share work you are involved in and for the CPP students and staff to engage with ideas and actions together as a programme.

Additional Programme Costs

Graduation costs

There is no fee to graduate and attend the Graduation Ceremony. However, there is a fee to hire a gown which is compulsory. A fee of approximately £50 is payable to an external gown supplier and you will be advised of how to do this as part of the graduation registration process.

EXTERNAL EXAMINERS

External Examiners

With due regard to the size of the student population of the BA (Hons) CPP Programme, and the number of items which require the involvement of external examiners, the Programme appoints one such examiner for the BA (Hons) CPP degree. They are charged with compiling an annual report and with participating in the work of the Examination Board/s, in particular in the Examination Board where the degree awards are made.

Our External Examiner for this academic year is Justin Hunt.
All aspects of the Programme are open to scrutiny by the External Examiner.
The assessments which the External Examiner is required to see are:

Level Three: Performance Research

Level Four: Into the New

(including, where possible, a sample of the viva voce examinations)

Level Four: Professional Portfolios

It is envisaged, and provided, that the External Examiners may decide at their discretion and in line with common practice, to carry out their duties through sampling. The sample will include the work of a range of students across the ability range as well as any failed work.

Board of Examiners

The Board of Examiners is appointed by the Academic Board. The Board of Examiners, and through it any authorised subsidiary examination committee, is accountable to the Academic Board for the fulfilment of its responsibilities.

Subsidiary Examination Committees and Progress Committees

The Board of Examiners may delegate specific responsibility for appropriate interim or deferred assessments to a subsidiary examination committee. In the case of the BA(Hons) CPP Programme, this subsidiary committee is the Progress committee. The Progress Committee:

- receives and monitors interim grades
- monitors student progress
- instigates feedback and appropriate action
- may require a resit of appropriate components in accordance with the assessment regulations for the Programme of study.

The Progress Committee reports its findings to the subsequent meeting of the Board of Examiners which ratifies the results.

HONOURS DEGREES

The Award of the Degree with Honours

The Degree with Honours with the appropriate named award may be conferred upon a student who has achieved at least 480 SCQF credits, of which a minimum of 180 are at CQF Levels 9 and 10, including a minimum of 90 at Level 10, and who has achieved a pass (at least at resit) in all elements of the programme. If a student fails to achieve the volume of credits required for the award of the degree with Honours they may be considered for the appropriate exit award.

The Award of the Degree with Honours in Joint Principal Study

The Degree of Bachelor of Music with Honours in Joint Principal Study may be conferred upon a student who has achieved at least 520 SCQF credits, of which a minimum of 180 are at SCQF Levels 9 and 10, including a minimum of 90 at Level 10, and who has achieved a pass (at least at resit) in all elements of the programme. To qualify for Joint Principal Study recognition in the named award, students must have followed the Joint Principal Study route throughout years 3 and 4 of the programme. If a student fails to achieve the volume of credits required for the award of the degree with Honours in Joint Principal Study they may be considered for the award of the Degree of Bachelor of Music with Honours or for an appropriate exit award.

The Classification of the Honours Degree

The Degree with Honours of the First Class may be conferred upon students who, in addition to meeting the requirements for the award of the degree with Honours, also achieve an Overall Degree Grade of A5 (13) or better.

The Degree with Honours of the Second Class Upper Division (2i) may be conferred upon students who, in addition to meeting the requirements for the award of the degree with Honours, also achieve an Overall Degree Grade of B3 (10) or better.

The Degree with Honours of the Second Class Lower Division (2ii) may be conferred upon students who, in addition to meeting the requirements for the award of the degree with Honours, also achieve an Overall Degree Grade of C3 (7) or better.

The Degree with Honours of the Third Class may be conferred upon students who meet the requirements for the award of the degree with Honours.

The Overall Degree Grade is a weighted average of the Overall Grades for years 3 and 4, which contribute 30% and 70% of the Overall Degree Grade respectively.

The Overall Grades for years 3 and 4 are defined as a credit weighted average of all modules taken in each of those years (120 credit per year; 140 credits per year in the case of Joint Principal Study students).

In the case of students taking pass/fail modules in years 3 and 4, the Overall Grades will be calculated out of the remaining graded credits (see example 4).

In all cases, Overall Grades and the Overall Degree Grade will be rounded to two points of decimal (e.g. 11.555 being rounded up to 11.56; 11.554 being rounded down to 11.55).

The examples below set out the procedure.

Example 1

Year 3					Overall Grade	Overall Grade	Degree	Degree Classification

With the approval of the Board of Examiners, this student would be awarded the degree of BEd (Music) with Honours of the Upper Second Class.

Borderline Results

Students who achieve an Overall Degree Grade which is in the range below a classification band will be considered borderline cases.

Overall Degree Grade is in the range ...	Outcome
13–17	1 st
12.50–12.99	either 1 st or 2i (discretion)
10–12.49	2i
9.50–9.99	either 2i or 2ii (discretion)
7–9.49	2ii
6.50–6.99	either 2ii or 3 rd (discretion)
4–6.49	3 rd
3.50–3.99	either 3 rd or Fail (discretion)

Borderline cases will be decided at the discretion of the Board of Examiners which will scrutinise the grades achieved and all other relevant information before making its decision. The Board will give particular thought to each case before making a final decision regarding classifications and borderline fails.

In reaching a decision in these cases, the Board of Examiners shall take account of all available information on the individual student's progress, including:

- the component results of all modules in all Levels
- the results of all assessments which contribute towards the determination of Pass or Fail in the Performance/Compositon Studies element of the Performance Module. The student's Profile Chart and Portfolio of Reports for Performance/Composition Studies will be made available for direct scrutiny by the Board of Examiners (BMus only).

- the proportion of the volume of credits above and below the relevant classification threshold

The final decision on student progress and the conferment of degrees and exit awards lies in all cases with the Boards of Examiners.

UNDERSTANDING MODULES

The following pages of module descriptors contain the key details about every module that makes-up BA Contemporary Performance Practice. They contain the information both you and your lecturers may refer to in order to understand (amongst other things):

- what you are expected to be able to achieve in order to pass the module;
- how you will be assessed;
- how long work should take;
- the aims of the module and the indicative content;
- which core-member of staff is responsible for the module;
- what reading may be helpful to better prepare for the module;
- how many credits the module carries.

Module Terms Glossary

The following glossary introduces each term. If you have further questions about your modules or the way they are recorded contact your Module Co-ordinator or delivery tutor.

Module Title (e.g. Personal Archaeology in Performance): Refers to the official title of the module.

Brief Description: The brief description gives you an overview of what you might expect to encounter in your learning through this module.

SCQF Level (e.g. SCQF Level 7): Refers to the level of study you should normally be at to take the module as prescribed in the Scottish Credit and Qualifications Framework.

Credit Rating: A 'credit' equates to 10 hours of notional student effort. This is not 10 hours of classroom time, but the number of hours it will take to complete the Module. For example, if a Module has 14 credits, we think it needs 140 hours of work. Your timetable might show 100 hours of rehearsal, but, when you add the time you spend researching, developing ideas independently and performing, etc. it totals 140 hours, therefore 14 credits.

Status: A module may either be core or option.

Pre-requisites: Lists the modules you are required to have passed before taking the given module.

Co-requisites: Lists the modules required to be undertaken simultaneously of the given module.

Anti-requisites: Lists the modules you cannot undertake simultaneously with the given module.

Maximum / Minimum number of students: This lists the maximum number of students that can undertake the module at any one time, in order to protect the ideal staff/student ratio and also the minimum number of students that the module requires to make it a worthwhile learning experience.

Learning Modes: Lists the types of exercises and experiences you will engage in during the module. This might be, for example, by workshop, tutorials, off-site learning etc. Each Learning Mode will have an indication of how many weeks that learning mode will be delivered over and, usually, how many hours per week.

Module Co-ordinator: This is the core member of staff who is charged with organising the delivery of the module to a good standard. Although the Module Co-ordinator may not actually teach any part of the module they are responsible for briefing the staff who do and oversee the correct application of grading practices. You may always approach the Module Co-ordinator with questions and comments about your module.

Module Aims: The module aims give a succinct indication of the purpose of the module and its role in the development of your practice at the given point in the strand.

Module Content: Provides an expansion of the concepts mentioned in the module aims highlighting the main areas of study. Note this content is indicative and liable to be adapted by the tutor/lecturer/artist delivering the module.

Learning Outcomes: Lists the skills and understanding you must be able to demonstrate in order to pass the module. You must meet each of the outcomes to pass the module and demonstrate your grasp of the learning outcomes in the work that you are assessed on. The work set for you and outlined in the Assessment Criteria is derived from the Learning Outcomes.

Assessment Modes: Lists the ways in which you will be assessed by the tutors delivering the module.

Assessment Criteria: Lists the exercises you will be expected to complete in order to pass the module and your relevant weightings. Note that you must complete and pass all components of a module in order to pass the module.

Feedback: Lists the ways you will receive feedback during and at the end of the module. This may be verbal, written or through a grade.

Recommended Resources: Lists the key texts, video and music pertinent to the module. Engaging with these before the module starts is a good way to prepare and get the most out of each module.

Other Relevant Details: Notes important information not covered anywhere else in the Module Descriptor.

Next Steps: This outlines the possible progression from this module. It is particularly relevant when looking at pathways through the curriculum created by option modules.
