Equality, Diversity and Inclusion Statement

The Royal Conservatoire of Scotland embraces a diverse population of students and staff. We believe that excellence can be achieved through recognising and celebrating the value of every individual, and are committed to promoting equality, diversity and inclusion in all of our activities.

We are committed to developing and upholding a culture based on respect, inclusiveness, transparency and open-mindedness. We will proactively advance equity and inclusive practice in our activities and through effective and collaborative action, ensure that we all have the right to be seen, heard and celebrated.

Anti-Racism Statement

The RCS Anti-Racism Action Plan (ARAP) was created in 2020 and shows key activities undertaken in our journey towards being a more equitable and just community of students and staff. RCS is next month (September 2023) launching a new institutional Strategic Plan taking us through to 2030. As part of this, we will be reflecting on lessons learned to date, as well as how we develop anti-racism further in a way that is embedded fully in our values and goals.

The Conservatoire has a zero-tolerance approach to racism and condemns all racist and discriminatory behaviour. We are committed to challenging and dismantling structural racism within our practices, policies, procedures, and community. In using the term 'Zero Tolerance', our meaning is that we do not tolerate acts of racism in RCS and that our response to any abuse will be timely, visible, credible, dealt with through transparent systems and in line with our policies. Students and staff, through their membership of RCS's Equality, Diversity and Inclusion Forum, worked together to refine a contextualising statement about Zero Tolerance, so that it would be clearly understood across our community what is meant in using this term within an RCS context.

It is unacceptable that anyone at the Conservatoire experiences racism or discrimination. The Conservatoire through its policies and practice pledges to support BIPOC staff and students and those from all under-represented ethnic groups. We will take action to ensure that the Royal Conservatoire of Scotland is an anti-racist environment where all staff and students can work, train, study and progress.

ABOUT THIS HANDBOOK

This document is your Student Handbook, outlining what you will need to know about your work throughout the Programme. You will also have an Undergraduate Handbook which has all of the general information which applies to all students.

You are being given this handbook, which contains the modules of study, so that you can plan ahead. It contains official information - things which you will be expected to know. You should read it through as soon as possible because you will be expected to be familiar with what is in it. Do not feel that you have to know the Handbook inside out, but you should use it as a constant source of reference. There will be technical terms and bits of jargon which you may not grasp on a first read, so make a note to ask about anything which you don't fully understand.

THE CURRICULUM

In 2012, following a comprehensive 'curriculum review' we introduced our new undergraduate curriculum. The curriculum is based on the six curriculum principles below and facilitates choice and flexibility for all students whilst maintaining disciplinary focus.

Our curriculum:

- Develops excellence alongside high levels of reflection in all of our disciplines
- Fosters the creative attitudes and skills needed for collaborative learning in and through practice
- Enables students to take responsibility for managing and evaluating their own learning
- Provides students with insight into a diversity of artistic fields and experience of what is required to succeed in their individual arts practice
- Develops the ability to use theoretical understanding to inform practice and practice to inform theory
- Enables students to make a contribution in the world as artists, educators, advocates and active citizens

We're the only Conservatoire in the UK and one of few in the world to offer such a rich range of art forms – music, drama, dance, production, and film. Our curriculum enables students to work with each other across the disciplines via choice modules, learning from each other, creating together and expanding as artists in a way that would be hard to experience elsewhere.

GUIDELINES ON PROFESSIONAL CONDUCT

Professional Conduct and Assessment

In the School of Drama, Dance, Production and Film the development of professionalism is one of our primary objectives. In so doing, the School educates not only towards the acquisition of skills and methodology, but also towards an understanding of self and the world.

The effectiveness of this educational process depends upon respect. That is respect of self, of peer and of tutor. Inevitably this implies acceptance of certain Guidelines on Professional Conduct, which will be rigorously observed. The profession operates a legally binding contractual system, which invokes penalties if breached. As part of your preparation for the profession, the School of Drama, Dance, Production and Film's Guidelines on Professional Conduct are consistent with those operating in professional contexts.

Students are expected:

- to behave in class, rehearsal, performance and production in a disciplined manner at all times.
- to work, explore and experiment outside supervised time.
- to contribute fully to the work of the group.
- to respect and value the contributions of others and be willing to work supportively with their peers outside of supervised time.
- to prepare thoroughly and independently for the work in hand.
- to be willing to respond positively to new challenges.
- to relate their work within the School to the wider context of the arts, culture and society.

Your wholehearted commitment to the above Guidelines is essential to your progress in the School and in the profession. Your demonstration of this commitment will form part of your assessment throughout the Programme.

WORKING PROCEDURES

The Conservatoire procedures on Health and Safety will apply at all times

- You are expected to attend all of your classes, rehearsals and performances. Unauthorised absence is not permitted. Absence for good reason must be notified to the Academic Administration and Support Office by 9.30am at the latest each day of absence. You should email the student absences email address (studentabsences@rcs.ac.uk) and copy in Kerry Livingstone from the ballet department (K.Livingstone@rcs.ac.uk) and your class teacher, if possible, before the start of class.
- Punctuality is essential at all times. You are expected to be in attendance and ready to work at the start of each session. For morning class, students are expected to be warming-up in the studio at least 30 minutes before the start time.
- It is essential that correct footwear and appropriate clothing is worn. Guidance as to suitable clothing and footwear will be given at the start of your programme.
- No food or drink (other than water) is allowed in working spaces and nothing should be placed on the pianos.
- Pianos should not be moved.
- Procedures for room bookings must be strictly observed.

Failure to follow any of the above Working Procedures will be considered to be an infringement of regulations and may result in appropriate disciplinary action.

ADDITIONAL PROGRAMME REQUIREMENTS

The Working Week

Although the working week is Monday to Friday 8a.m. to 6p.m. it is usual for production work and student generated work to continue into the evening and over the weekends. It should not be assumed, therefore, that Saturdays and Sundays are for home visits and other recreational activities. Certainly there will be time for these, but care must be taken to take note of schedules which will be published in advance. However, in line with professional practice inevitably there may be last minute changes to work schedules. You are expected to accommodate these changes other than in the most exceptional circumstances. Third year ballet students will attend Company Class (on rota) with Scottish Ballet, which may be on a Saturday morning, and all students may be called for class/rehearsals on a Saturday.

Communication

Members of the Programme Team use email to communicate quickly and efficiently with individual students, year groups and the whole Programme. It is your responsibility to check your email account daily. There is an official notice board in the corridor in Wallace Studios, which is to be kept for Programme business and will include information on classes, tutorials, physio appointments, projects and theatre visits etc.

Staff/Student Meetings

There will normally be a weekly 'full course' meeting, which usually takes place on a Monday. These meetings provide an informal opportunity for you to exchange information and ideas with staff and each other in a joint effort to get the best from the Programme. It is therefore important that you all attend, make your ideas heard, and listen to others.

Time is scheduled one morning per week (usually a Friday) before class for meetings with one of your Year Tutors – these can be for individual or group meetings. If you would like to arrange a meeting on a Friday morning, you should email your Year Tutor direct. You can also arrange to meet the Head of Programme by emailing and requesting an appointment.

You are expected to attend year group meetings including those called, with reasonable notice, by student representatives. If you are to be unavoidably absent from a year group meeting, it is your responsibility to inform a member of the Programme Team in advance of the meeting and to make sure that you find out what took place.

REQUIRED PROGRAMME MATERIALS

Uniform and Grooming

A detailed uniform list will be forwarded to you before the beginning of Term One. You will need an RCS t-shirt (which can be purchased at the box office in Renfrew Street) and dark coloured, plain jazz pants/tracksuit trousers to wear during warm-up. You will be issued with a locker at the start of the year.

Grooming is an important part of the profession and hair should be neat and tidy at all times, tied back from the face in a style that allows the line of the head and neck to be clearly seen. Jewellery should not be worn as this presents a health and safety risk in the studio. Only approved dance shoes/bare feet are allowed in the studio – outdoor shoes should be left outside the door. Please make sure that you don't wear your dance shoes outside.

Theatre Visits

In addition to regular visits to watch Scottish Ballet, you will be required to make a minimum of three theatre trips in Term One and Two, to both dance and non-dance performances. Please budget up to £100 for each of the first two terms. Student discounts, free previews and other ticket offers should keep your costs well below this but there is a great deal of theatre on offer in Glasgow and you should see as much as possible. We would also expect you to go to the theatre in Edinburgh occasionally, so transport costs should also be considered.

Levy

You are required to make a one-off payment of £110 to help defray the cost of course equipment, articles and photocopies that you will be issued with at various times throughout the three years of the Programme. This sum will be collected from you by a member of the Academic Administration and Support Office staff when you matriculate. Students who join the programme directly to 2nd or 3rd year will be asked to pay £73 or £36 respectively.

Performance Medicine provision

The ballet department is very fortunate to have the support of a specialist Performance Medicine Team, who provide physiotherapy profiling, screening, education, triage, treatment and support. There are weekly treatment clinics and an education programme which runs throughout the year. Specialist imaging (ie MRI/CT scans etc) and treatment is also provided if required. Students will be issued with information about the provision at the start of each year and an invoice will be issued by the RCS finance department. The annual cost for 23/24 is £575 for all students.

Graduation Costs

There is no fee to graduate and attend the Graduation Ceremony. However, there is a fee to hire a gown which is compulsory. A fee of approximately £50 is payable to an external gown supplier and you will be advised of how to do this as part of the graduation registration process.

OUTLINE OF PROGRAMME STRUCTURE AND CONTENT

Conservatoire credit allocation framework

	Core credits	Options credits
Level 1	120
Level 2	110	10
Level 3	110	10

Core

Core modules are central to the aims and Learning Outcomes of the programme of study and therefore are compulsory and must be taken and passed in order to progress. In Modern Ballet, all the modules are 'core', including the Creative Citizenship module in first year. There are 10 credits of 'options' (IXP) in both second and third year.

Options - Interdisciplinary and Extended Practice (IXP)

Interdisciplinary and Extended Practice (IXP) is designed to enrich your creative and educational journey during your studies at the Royal Conservatoire of Scotland through learning experiences centred on creative discovery, experimentation, extension, and innovation. The modules within IXP provide a locus for collaboration, interdisciplinary investigation, and creative citizenship, encouraging these aptitudes and understandings to be interwoven with your core-studies—activating and energizing new connections, ideas, and partnerships beyond core-curricula. IXP acts as a formal and core element of connection between the curricula of the School of Music and the School of Drama, Dance, Production, and Film.

This is articulated as:

Year 1 – Creative Citizenship (SCQF 7, 10 Credits) Core-module

Year 2 – Selection of 10 Credits from IXP portfolio (SCQF 7/8/9)

Year 3 – Selection of 10 Credits from IXP portfolio (SCQF 7/8/9)

Creative Citizenship

(SCQF 7, 10 Credits) Core-module

Beginning in the first term of study at RCS, you engage with the core IXP module Creative Citizenship. In classes of peers from across all undergraduate programmes, you are introduced to the cultural, artistic, political, and educational context of learning in a Higher Education Performing Arts institution. Creative Citizenship is concerned with equipping you with understandings and skills which enable you to be resilient, proactive, compassionate, and ethical collaborators and peers within this context.

It is also an opportunity for you to meet and work with peers from across the Conservatoire, building relationships beyond your programme and awareness of the different priorities, skills, aspirations and worldviews of peers. Such relationships and awareness are integral to creative citizenship.

Through the lens of artistic practice you will explore four key areas of creative citizenship:

Artistic Critique and Conversation;
Working with others—awareness of others' needs and identities;
Ethics, Consent, and Responsibilities;
Digital and Media Literacies.

The end of the module acts as a marker in your journey to understanding and applying creative citizenship, as your core-programme continues to develop and nurture these aptitudes and skills in your core-studies.

IXP in Years 2 and 3

In second and third year of undergraduate study, you select 10 Credits from the IXP portfolio in the form of an intensive, week-long Winter or Spring School, or a student-led Personal Creative Project.

The IXP Winter and Spring Schools provide a concentrated and protected space outside your core-programme to engage in multi-disciplinary learning environments with an aim to discover new skills outside your core-studies; apply your arts practice to experimental and interdisciplinary contexts; extend your arts practice to social contexts outwith the RCS; or innovate your practice through business, accelerator, and entrepreneurial activities.

Each academic year, a range of topics are offered within the four strands of IXP that relate to student-interest, staff research, priorities in the performing arts industry, and external partnerships.

Each module in IXP should engage you in a conscious synthesis of these learning experiences with your arts practice and core-studies—promoting an understanding and development of praxis.

For years 2 and 3

Interdisciplinary and Extended Practice

10 Credits from the IXP portfolio in the form of an intensive, week-long Winter or Spring School, or a student-led Personal Creative Project.

OVERVIEW OF PROGRAMME

The BA Modern Ballet is a vocational degree providing a three year full-time programme of study for students intending to work as professional ballet or contemporary dancers. It will provide training which is geared to giving you the skills to work at the highest level in today's professional companies. As both a training and an education, the programme is based on the recognition that a strong classical technique is necessary to underpin the development of a versatile artist, able to communicate with an audience through the performance of a wide variety of classical, modern and contemporary choreography. The dancer must learn how to understand, interpret and, at times, create choreography and to convey this to an audience. Increasingly, dancers require well developed creative and improvisation skills, particularly when working with a choreographer. You must also be able to assume full responsibility for your creative process whilst working actively, responsibly and with generosity in collaboration with others. In addition, in order to pursue an active and varied career you must be able to engage in a range of activities relating to career management and development and have an awareness of the variety of different contexts in which you may be employed.

Throughout the three levels, you are provided with the knowledge, skills and understanding required to realise your potential in the professional dance industry.

Level 1 is a foundation year across the dance genres of ballet and contemporary dance and related subjects, establishing knowledge and basic technique and a safe approach to dance practice. Basic choreographic and collaborative skills are introduced.

Level 2 sees your technical and artistic abilities stretched and developed, whilst you are introduced to the skills required in creating more complex dance works, improvisation and working collaboratively across different disciplines.

Level 3 provides the opportunity to extend and secure practical skills, focusing on the dance areas of personal strength and to develop sound professional skills in collaborative and improvisational work with current professionals, both in rehearsal and performance. During the year, opportunities are provided for further development of professional practice in the professional (or proto-professional) circumstances of a cycle of audition, rehearsals and public performances.

The assessments are carefully designed to test the attainment of skills and achievement of Level Learning Outcomes but also to gradually introduce you to a variety of situations which will assist you in your future careers – developing through group performance in studio settings, individual performances in studio settings, group performances on stage and finally, individual performances on stage. Communication, reflection, analytical and pedagogic skills are nurtured both formally and informally throughout the three levels. Knowledge and understanding of contextual information is assessed in a variety of ways from practical presentations, verbal presentations, submission of projects and individual research.

Level One in Outline

There are five principal areas of study during the first level. All of these areas are designed to contribute to your progress to achieve the Level Learning Outcomes.

Technique – Ballet and Contemporary

The Professional Technique module is designed to provide a secure basis in the areas of classical ballet and contemporary dance. The development of a secure foundation in both techniques (both practically and theoretically) underpins the daily technique classes. This is combined with an emphasis on the development of understanding of technique as applied to the individual dancer and the ability to apply technical knowledge to strengthen individual performance. For this reason, conditioning classes/exercises are incorporated into this module. The establishment of individual technique forms the basis of assessment in class and performance. The development of self-confidence, the ability to engage artistically with the learning and performance skills at this basic level, are combined with the focus on development of physical technique skills

Core Skills – Knowledge, Understanding and Reflection

This module is designed in particular to take into account the specific needs of students entering undergraduate study at an earlier age than is generally the case. It aims to provide a practical training in research, referencing and academic skills and awareness of the wider dance community and dance practitioners. It also introduces students to the fundamentals of anatomy, music and dance history for the dancer, which will enhance your own dance technique.

Reflective practice as a tool for enhancing the learning in practical classes is also introduced.

Repertoire and Performance

This module draws together the technical skills gained in technique classes and additionally, cross references the learning in dance history. By merging the delivery of the theoretical and practical, students can place the historic repertoire pieces in context more easily. Students learn selected corps de ballet and contemporary repertoire. This allows you to gain practical experience of different styles whilst developing performance skills as part of a group. You study the development of style and technique and are introduced to the 'classic' repertoire performed in some ballet companies today, alongside an introduction to contemporary dance repertoire.

Choreography Skills

Through the 'Introduction to Choreography' module you learn the process and art of making dances, both from the perspective of the creator and the performer. A practical and theoretical introduction is provided, where you are required to create and perform a group piece of choreography as part of the assessment. This also develops collaborative and communication skills.

Collaborative Skills – Creative Citizenship

Along with all other undergraduate programmes in the Conservatoire, Modern Ballet students undertake the Creative Citizenship module, which is designed to equip you with basic skills in collaboration across disciplines and the opportunity to create short pieces of work. It also fosters interest and awareness of the diversity and multi-disciplinary nature of life at the Conservatoire.

Level 2 in Outline

In Level 2, the principal areas of classical ballet and contemporary dance technique are further developed and strengthened, with the dancer being given more opportunity to develop the area of dance which best suits their individual physicality and interests. Improvisation is introduced. Choreographic knowledge and skills are expanded through the 'Choreographic Collaboration' module, which is cross-disciplinary. Students are expected at all times to utilise strengthening dance technique to expand the limits of individual performances, whether alone or as part of a group. 'Contextual Studies' develops in Level 2 and requires more rigour and independent research. Finally, the 'Repertoire and Performance 2' module is a development of the Level 1 module. It engages the mind of the 'thinking dancer' where you are required to learn, rehearse, analyse, research and perform a piece of existing repertoire. This provides the culmination to a year of increasingly autonomous study and practice.

There are four principal areas of study in Level Two:

Technique – Ballet and Contemporary

The level and pace of work develops considerably during the second year, with Pas de Deux, Pointework and Virtuosity classes showing particular increases in demands. Contemporary classes will move into specialist techniques and you will be expected to show proficiency in these techniques in assessment and performance. Increasing autonomy will be expected in daily dance classes (particularly regarding personalised professional preparation). Formative and summative assessments in ballet and contemporary develop to incorporate greater performance demands.

Collaborative and Choreographic Skills

Developed from Level 1, you are guided to work collaboratively with another discipline in the creation of a new dance work. The end result is assessed as a performance event. This module requires well developed performance skills but also extends your creative, musical and artistic abilities whilst encouraging individual and collective responsibility towards the creation of the work. Collaboration and communication are key. Professional practice must be maintained at all times and is assessed throughout.

Knowledge, Understanding and Reflection

As a development of Level 1, you will improve your independent research skills throughout the Contextual Studies module. Dance history develops and anatomy for the dancer is also continued, with the focus now being on the application of anatomical knowledge in a dance context. Following on from this, you must produce a research project on a subject of interest to you, which highlights your abilities to analyse, compare, record and present information. This underpins the other Level 2 modules which require more developed documentation and research skills. Reflective Practice also continues from Level 1.

Repertoire and Performance

Learning more complex group repertoire and also working to learn and rehearse a solo (in both contemporary dance and ballet), you develop both your technical and performance skills. In addition to the physical skills required for the performance, you will be utilising the analytical skills and further developing pedagogic skills to inform and enhance your performance. The module will culminate in a studio performance of a solo and the end-of-year Graduation Performance.

Options

You will choose a 10 Credit module from the 'Interdisciplinary and Extended Practice' (IXP) menu.

Level 3 in Outline

In Level 3, the final year of study, the programme is focused upon physical and intellectual preparation for the profession and increasing performance opportunities for students. Full responsibility for professional practice, including career management, personal development and audition preparation will be assumed by you as the year progresses. When you are presented with the opportunity of professional employment throughout the year, as appropriate, any work undertaken is assessed in place of its curriculum-based equivalent. The 'Repertoire and Performance 3' module prepares you for the world of work by executing a professional level performance, working with a variety of dancers and choreographers across different dance genres. This module is designed to develop versatility and confidence. Technique will be strong and consolidated by the end of the year, with you working proficiently in both classical ballet and contemporary dance, even if you have particularly developed strengths in one area. Autonomy is encouraged here with you selecting individual solos to perform at a professional level for the annual 'Solos Evening', which allows you to hone performance and technical skills for this individual performance. The Graduation Performance will allow you to highlight strengths, whilst showing a versatility which will increase employability.

There are four principal areas of study in Level Three:

Technique and Performance – Ballet and Contemporary

You will have well developed classical and contemporary techniques and a sense of individual artistry, coping confidently with pointework/virtuosity. Knowledge of dance vocabulary will be at a professional level and the major development will be the participation in 'Company Class'. You will be self-reliant in terms of personal fitness goals. In addition to technical elements, you will demonstrate that you can conduct yourself in a professional manner during class and rehearsals. The culmination of the three years of training in professional technique are the Graduation Performances and Solos Evening, which allows you to demonstrate your professional level skills in the studio, at rehearsals and during performance. Collaborative skills are required throughout the year and you have the opportunity to develop your own pedagogic skills in 'mentoring' roles for students from lower levels.

Knowledge, Understanding and Reflection

Students further refine research, reflection, analytical and documenting skills through both the 'Project' module and the Reflective Practice 3' module. There is increased autonomy in selecting both the subject, mode of learning and assessment mode with the tutor, in an area of particular interest to you.

Professional Preparation

This module embraces a wide range of activities including auditions, photographs, CVs, production of audition/showreels, use of technology and exposure to a variety of professional contacts concerned with areas of employment and career management. The daily requirements of maintaining physical condition after graduation are discussed and planned. Personal and Professional Development

Planning provides both the catalyst and the focus for early career planning and transition into the profession.

Options Modules

You will choose a 10 credit module from the 'Interdisciplinary and Creative Practice' (IXP) menu.

DESCRIPTION OF LEARNING MODES

These are all of the different ways that you will learn in the Modern Ballet programme:

- Performance: Carried out in front of an audience (of any kind, including public, peers etc.)
- Staff-led class/workshop/rehearsal/coaching: Practical, class based, led by staff
- Student-led class/workshop/rehearsal: Practical, class based, led by student
- One-to-one tutorials: A dialogue to critically engage in discussion of your work
- Group tutorials: A group conversation to critically engage in discussion of your work
- Independent Group Learning: Learning that students will do as a group out with class time
- Independent Learning: Learning that a student will do out with class time
- Off-site Learning: Learning that will take place outside the Royal Conservatoire of Scotland. This could include: company class, performance events, placements and secondments
- Lecture: Presentation by a member of staff or external expert to a student audience

Rationale for the use of Learning Modes

Staff-led class/rehearsal/workshop/coaching is defined as 'practical, class-based, and led by staff'. The ballet department has the advantage of being able to draw upon the skills of a large range of expert teachers, coaches, dancers and other specialists, who deliver the highest calibre of teaching and training. Students will commence every day with a practical ballet or contemporary class and many subject areas are delivered this way, including ballet, contemporary, repertoire and conditioning. It is the main learning and teaching strategy for practical classes throughout the three years of study in the programme. Within one staff-led class/rehearsal, a variety of learning and teaching modes can be employed to cater for the diverse range of learning styles evident in one group of students. This is the standard method of delivering technique classes both during training and in the profession, with experienced professional dancers still participating in a staff-led class every day of their working lives. This allows for warm-up, technical improvement and physical and mental preparation for performances and rehearsals. There are many opportunities within every class for students not only to develop autonomy but also to develop their own pedagogic skills by working with peers and giving feedback and feedforward.

Student-led class/workshop/rehearsal is defined as ‘practical, class-based, and led by students’. It is an occasional learning strategy for Contextual Studies classes (i.e.. presentation of group research tasks) and Professional Preparation classes (i.e. video training sessions etc) and projects, that is progressively deployed throughout the three years of study. Students from Level 3 are encouraged to lead workshops and rehearsals for Level 1/2 students and often use these students in their choreography projects. This mode is used most often in the delivery and monitoring of the daily warm-up sessions.

One-to-one tutorials are defined as a ‘dialogue to critically engage in the discussion of the student’s work’. These one-to-one tutorials are an essential element in the learning and teaching approach in the BA Modern Ballet and they are particularly crucial in Professional Technique modules and Repertoire and Performance modules. In Level 1, one-to-one tutorials are an important feedback mechanism and as the student develops they become a key moment of interaction between the student and the tutor. By Level 3, the one-to-one tutorial has taken on the quality of a critical conversation between artist and a mentor. The one-to-one tutorial usefully prepares the student, in an ongoing way, for reflecting and articulating their praxis.

Group tutorials are defined as ‘a group conversation to critically engage with the students’ work’. Group learning is a feature of most modules and continues in dance throughout professional life. Students learn intensively in groups and the process of their collaboration is part of the focus of the group tutorial conversation. In Level 1, they are an important feedback mechanism and (for example when discussing the progression of vocabulary) and as the students develop they become a key moment of interaction between the students and the tutor. In Level 2, students are required to work collaboratively as part of a group (i.e. in the Choreographic Collaboration module), and here, the group tutorial assists both with technique and interpersonal skills. By Level 3, the group tutorial has taken on the quality of a critical conversation between artists and a mentor.

Independent learning is defined as ‘learning that students engage in out with class time’. All modules require independent learning and this requirement increases throughout the three years of study to reflect the growing autonomy of the student. For practical modules, independent learning involves practice in the studio, combined with research into dancers and choreographers, whereas contextual studies requires investigation into historical events, anatomy, comparisons of performances and differing dance styles. In Levels 1 and 2, many of the independent learning tasks are given specific focus by the tutor. Students are expected to engage in independent learning using a variety of tools provided by the Conservatoire and also by exploring their own learning styles and preferences. The Conservatoire Library provides access to a growing variety of print, online, visual and audio resources to enhance and deepen the learning experience. The staff also provide training and expertise in research and digital literacy skills in a discipline specific context. The virtual learning and e-portfolio platforms Moodle and the Student Portal are Conservatoire hosted tools which students can utilize for independent learning, reflection and group collaborations. Students have allocated time in the dance studios for 'own practice' and may book studios out with these times (ie evenings and weekends).

Off-site learning is defined as 'learning that will take place outside the Royal Conservatoire of Scotland'. In the programme this includes: attending performance events, engaging in placements, exchange visits and 'Company Class' either at Tramway with Scottish Ballet or in the theatre/visiting other companies in their premises. This off-site learning is fundamental to the programme, as it allows students to test their developing praxis in a professional environment (i.e. when visiting Scottish Ballet) and increases students' awareness of various performing groups.

Lectures are defined as, 'an educational talk by a member of staff or external expert to a student audience'. Lectures are not widely used but where they are, they provide theoretical inputs drawing on a variety of sources, to reveal, explore and challenge students' notions of performance and practice. Examples include the Performance Medicine lecture programme, nutrition, performance psychology and 'creative conversations' with visiting professionals, like Matthew Bourne

Performance is defined as 'engaging in the moment of performance in front of an audience'. Performance is often a tangible outcome, which is the culmination of a process. In the moment of performance a student acquires a direct and experiential understanding of their work as it is offered to a particular audience. For dance students, performance in the studio is as important as performance on the stage, as it is a preparation for professional auditions. The Professional Technique modules develop performance skills in the studio, whilst Repertoire and Performance modules develop these skills on stage and in other environments.

THE STUDENT CONTRACT

The Student Contract provides a way for you to plan your personal, educational and professional development and determine your individual academic pathway through the programme. The Student Contract is a dynamic, online tool that:

- Informs discussion and helps you navigate your way through the programme and inform choices and negotiations with the Programme Team and/or your Transitions Tutor
- Documents choices and agreement between you and the Programme Team/Transitions Tutor
- Documents negotiated assessment modes (where applicable)

In specific terms the Student Contract:

- Details modules and their credit rating within the programme
- Details performance opportunities along with any other commitments that may be undertaken as part of the programme as part of independent learning and the development of graduate attributes.

The Student Contract requires that students engage in the following:

- Review, plan and take responsibility for your own learning
- Articulate your personal goals and evaluate progress towards their achievement.
- Articulate personal choice.
- Gain a holistic overview of your learning and its relationship to extra-curricular pursuits and career development.
- Improve study and career management skills.

The Student Contract is the central hub where an overview of course expectations, attainment and feedback are centralised. It is a tool for students to monitor and evaluate learning and for the institution to document key achievements and profile overall student journey.

THE TRANSITIONS TUTOR AND TRANSITIONS TUTORIALS

Each Modern Ballet student is allocated a Transitions Tutor who supports you through your personal development planning process. For Level 1 and 2 students, the transitions tutor is a member of the Programme Team, so has the knowledge to guide you in your choices. The Transitions Tutor meetings are arranged in time to guide Level 1 and 2 students in your selections for the following year's Option (IXP) modules and additionally, for Level 2 students, to discuss potential options for their Project module. The Level 3 students focus on preparing for graduation and beyond, for the commencement of your career. Transitions Tutorials are distinct from module feedback tutorials and help you develop your ability to:

- identify action plans to ensure continuing progress and development
- identify potential barriers and challenges
- prepare for graduation and post-study

ASSESSMENT

The programme accords with the underlying principles of assessment which states that all forms of assessment should promote learning, be reliable, fair and valid.

Reliable assessment means that:

- The outcome of the assessment would be the same irrespective of the precise membership of an examining panel

Fair assessment means that:

- Students must be aware from the beginning of each module/project what, when and how they are to be assessed
- All students should be assessed under the same conditions (unless reasonable adjustments are applied)

Valid assessment means:

- All moments of assessments are mapped onto assessment criteria, which are mapped onto Learning Outcomes

Assessment is for learning:

- The assessment process is, in itself, part of your learning experience
- As a consequence, the assessment process is incomplete without detailed feedback

All assessment for the programme is designed to enable students to demonstrate achievement of programme learning outcomes.

Pass/Fail

Within the Modern Ballet department, all summative assessments are assessed as either a 'Pass' or a 'Fail'. It is this Pass/Fail that will appear on your feedback and on documentation presented to Progress Committees, Examination Boards and to External Examiners. The Pass/Fail system has been adopted following the embedding of the feedback process for assessment, which puts the learning at the centre of the assessment and feedback process, rather than the grade which has been awarded. The assessment and feedback process is both rigorous and individualised and enables you to take responsibility for your learning.

The concept of assessment as a catalyst for learning is central to the design of the programme. As you progress through the three levels, the assessments complement the learning which has taken place throughout the module and additionally, provide opportunities for you to learn about performing in a variety of contexts and prepare you for the profession. The programme team have carefully designed each of the assessments to ensure that they contribute to your learning journey and believe that all the assessments offer important opportunities for learning, reflection and feedback.

The assessments reflect the predominantly practical nature of the programme and are carefully structured to provide proto-professional situations which simulate the reality of life as a dancer. An example of this is the development of the assessments for the Professional Technique module throughout Levels 1, 2 and 3. At Level 1, you are assessed by a panel in the performance of a prepared class in both ballet and contemporary dance. At Level 2, alongside the prepared element of the classes, 'free' work is added (this is exercises/sequences which are taught in the assessment for the first time), and finally for Level 3, you participate in both a mock audition (with an industry professional who you do not work with regularly and delivers an audition class) at the end of Term 1 and then at the end of Term 2, a final technique assessment which has a combination of prepared/free work but is performed in front of an invited panel and fellow students. The progress through the three levels demonstrates the growing demands on you as a dancer and prepares you for the audition process which is the general route to gaining employment. The assessments are used as a vehicle to demonstrate the learning that has taken place for you to progress to a point of being adequately prepared for the profession.

You also move from being assessed as part of a group (even if being assessed as an individual within the group), to performing as a soloist and then on stage (in the Repertoire and Performance strand). This development of the learning and assessments prepares you gradually to cope with increasingly challenging situations and ensures you can cope with audition situations (which generally consist of participating in a ballet/contemporary technique class in front of a panel).

Most of the summative assessments take place towards the end of the academic year, so the quality and regularity of formative feedback is recognised as an essential element in your learning. You have one-to-one formative feedback tutorials twice per term with your Level Tutor and there are formative assessments and feedback tutorials at the end of Term 1 for the Professional Technique modules. The use of mutually constructed feedback (see section 10.3) is central to the delivery of the programme and forms the basis of the tutorials.

All assessments can be adapted to suit students with differing learning needs (i.e. written work may be presented verbally, projects can be recorded rather than being written).

ASSESSMENT

Description of Assessment Modes – the ways you will be assessed:

The main methods of assessment on the programme are as follows:

Performance (in studio and on stage)

The assessment of performance is central to the learning in the Conservatoire context. In the programme, performance can take the form of class work presentations (e.g. Professional Technique modules), studio presentations (Repertoire and Performance modules, Introduction to Collaboration module), public performances (e.g. Repertoire and Performance modules, Choreographic Collaboration module) or site-based performances (e.g. Project module).

Presentations

You are given opportunities to demonstrate your knowledge, skills and understanding verbally through presentations. In the programme, presentations can take the form of individual and group presentations (e.g. Core Skills module) or lecture demonstrations, and individual verbal presentations (Level 3 Project and Reflective Practice 3 modules). You can also utilise technology in this method and are encouraged to consider creating films or recorded presentations etc

Continuous Observation

This involves continuous observation of your working process throughout the module. This is particularly important in the programme and is used in daily classes and also in rehearsals. You will be encouraged to use peer-to-peer assessment in some modules (ie Choreographic Collaboration)

Written Assessments

Some of the modules in the programme involve forms of written assessment. These range from traditional forms such as essays and projects to more innovative subject specific forms such as Reflective Blogs (electronically on the Student Portal) and Programme Notes (Choreography Modules).

FEEDBACK

As stated above, assessment is for learning:

- The assessment process is, in itself, part of your learning experience
- As a consequence, the assessment process is incomplete without detailed feedback

The learning and assessment process includes the provision of detailed feedback to you from your teachers. The purpose of feedback is twofold:

1. to let you know how well you have done in relation to the criteria against which the work/performance is assessed ('feedback')
2. to advise you how to improve your work in future ('feedforward').

Feedback may be informal (e.g. formative feedback provided during a class or coaching session); or formal (e.g. summative feedback provided by a written report on the assessment). The programme seeks to create a learning environment where peer-to-peer and self-evaluation is as important as staff feedback. Feedback in all its forms is constructive and often instantaneous.

Where appropriate, (for example in the Professional Technique modules), feedback is mutually constructed between staff member and student, to encourage you to reflect on the feedback and to determine actions needed to progress your learning and development. This is an important element of the learning and teaching in the department.

1-2-1 Tutorials – the Feedback Process following practical assessments (Mutually Constructed Feedback)

The Modern Ballet department have developed a rigorous assessment and feedback process for practical assessments which has now been fully embedded. The process has developed over time from the desire to encourage you to engage more fully in your learning and to develop confidence in discussing your progress and targets for development. A summary of the process is outlined below:

- Step 1:* Assessment criteria are issued and discussed with students
- Step 2:* Practical Assessment takes place, marked by panel and is recorded
- Step 3:* Students watch the recording of the assessment and make notes using the assessment criteria
- Step 4:* Feedback tutorial based on discussion of student's observations and notes

- Step 5: Student writes up a record of the tutorial (on the pro-forma) and submits to tutor
- Step 6: Tutor approves record of tutorial (or returns for amendments)
- Step 7: Once approved, the assessment outcome is issued to student

The timescale for the above (steps 2-7) is a maximum of two weeks but is generally complete within a week. Some of our assessments take place at the end of term 1- or term 2. If this is the case, feedback tutorials may be scheduled at the start of the following term.

This assessment and feedback process has developed over time as a way of ensuring that students are not driven only by an assessment outcome but rather, you use the feedback from the assessment to help you learn. This is an important way of ensuring that you listen, reflect and understand your feedback and use this to set appropriate goals to progress.

Definitions and Descriptions

Formative assessment is designed to provide feedback to students and tutors for the purpose of the development of teaching and learning. From a student's perspective, formative assessment provides information on their performance and how they are progressing in terms of the development of the skills, knowledge attitudes and insights required by a particular module. Generally, the results of formative assessment do not contribute to your final grade but are purely for the purpose of helping you to understand your strengths and weaknesses to work towards improving your overall performance and attaining the Learning Outcomes.

Summative assessment results in the production of a grade (pass/fail) and is a measurement of your learning. Summative assessment is designed to evaluate how well you have achieved the learning outcomes associated with a particular module. Summative assessment should also always be viewed and constructed as formative assessment – i.e. as well as measuring your learning at a given point, it is also intended to guide and inform your progress.

The ways we give you feedback

Verbal - verbal feedback is the most common type of formative feedback in the Conservatoire environment. Tutors make instantaneous and continuous responses to your work and suggest ways of improving what they have heard and/or seen. Verbal feedback during classes and rehearsals – both individual and to the group - is the most frequent mode of feedback utilised in the department and as well as responding immediately during the class, you are expected to use and reflect on this feedback to inform your reflective blogs.

Verbal feedback will be given in a number of contexts including group classes, group/individual rehearsals, observation of process and tutorials. Verbal feedback can also take the form of a group discussion (face-to-face or online in the blog) and could include feedback from staff and peers.

Written – although most usually associated with summative assessment, tutors may also provide purely formative feedback in written form, which could be on paper, by email or some other electronic means. Written feedback is given on draft submissions of essays/projects.

Grade – you will receive either a pass or fail outcome for all summative assessments in the ballet department. Summative assessments occur at fixed points in the delivery of a module (e.g. at a mid-point or at the end of a module).

Options – Level 2 and 3

As Options modules can be selected from any area in the Conservatoire, they may be pass/fail or marked according to the Conservatoire's Common Assessment Scale:

Common Assessment Scale	'Background scale'	Descriptor	Degree Classification
A1	17	Excellent	First Class
A2	16
A3	15
A4	14
A5	13

C1	9	Good	Second Class, lower division (2ii)
C2	8
C3	7
D1	6	Satisfactory	Third Class
D2	5
D3	4
E1	3	Inadequate/ Fail	Not Honourworthy
E2	2
F	1	Serious fail
Pass			Where the assessment has a Pass/ Fail outcome
Fail			Where the assessment has a Pass/ Fail outcome
NS	0	Non-submission/ Non-appearance

Resolution of Disputes (mutually constructed feedback)

There may be occasions where you do not agree with feedback provided by the lecturer. If it is not possible for feedback, either formative or summative, to be mutually and meaningfully resolved between you and the lecturer(s), you will be given the option at the earliest convenient time to:

1. Have the documentation of the feedback reviewed by another member of their subject lecturing team.
2. Request a second member of staff to be present during a resolution process
3. Request that the Programme Leader or another senior member of staff acts as moderator for the process, in which case the moderator's decision will be final.
